NOTICE.

ON account of my continued ill health, I have concluded, as soon as practicable, to retire from the dry goods trade, I now offer my entire stock for sale to any merchant wishing to engage in the business, and will from the 1st day of July sell my goods FOR CASH, until disposed of, which will enable me to offer to the retail trade some special bargains.
All persons knowing themselves indebted to me will please call and settle at once, as I am anxious to square my books. Respectfully,
H. G. SMOOT.

To Love, Honor, and Obey.

The old-time formula in the marriage service, by the utterance of which the bride unreservedly commits herself to obedience to the dictates of the man she marries, is greatly disliked by most women. There are many who are willing to say they will love the man. Some go so far as to promise him honor. But in implicit obedience there seems to be something so lavish that the feminine soul instinctively recoils from it. Some women require that the officiating clergyman shall omit the objectionable word. Others want it to be slurred over so as to be hardly audible, and there are some who are willing to have it pronounced aloud and to respond to it with the understanding that it means no more than the "with all my goods I thee endow" which is uttered by the bridegroom, whose sole possessions are the goods upon his back.

When, therefore, the married man insists on the full carrying out of that part of the contract in which obedience is promised by the wife, he either becomes an object of ridicule or else otherwise gets himself into trouble. Thus it was with one Davenport of St. Louis, who undertook to rule the wife of his bosom as an Oriental potentate would lord it over the inmates of his harem. Within a few weeks after marriage this tyrannical person began his tyranny, exacting the most rigid obedience to all his dictates and making his wife's existence a protracted misery. This autocrat seems to have been wofully jealous of his wife and to have had stout objections to her even speaking to other gentlemen. To carry out his views on wifely obedience he enacted a set of rules for her government and gave them to her as her guide while on a visit to New York. These constituted a sort of moral strait-jacket, to the great discomfort of the poor woman who was expected to do the obeying. She was to speak to nobody in traveling except to conductors and porters. She was to go directly to her mother's boarding house and there salute nobody except her own relations. She was to refrain from singing in the boarding-house parlor. She was to remain with her mother continually, day and night. She was to eat with the old lady or else at a separate table by herself. And she was on no account to permit herself to be introduced to anybody with a view of forming new acquaintances. As if all this were not enough, the poor strait-jacketed creature was every night to write to her tormentor a full and exact account of her doings and goings and sayings, which was to be warranted faithful and truthful.

It is not surprising that a divorce suit grew out of this system of compelled obedience. The woman who could obey such a tyrant as this fellow could neither honor nor love him. The man who could thus shrivel a woman's soul is worthy of nothing better than a divorce, but the divorce should be of the sort which forbids him to marry again and bring any other woman under the ban of his horrible tyranny. The "obedience" idea may be good in theory, but as soon as it is put into severe practice it becomes so odious that it chafes the marriage bond, and before long begins to unravel it. The obedience and honor which do not spring from love are not worth having.—Philadelphia Times.

Improving.

When one is making progress in his profession he ought to be satisfied and not expect to attain the highest honors at a single leap. We lately heard, to illustrate, of a very modest young physician who, on being asked how he got on replied: "Well, I've got so I can cure children of all possible diseases, and hope to be able to do the same for grown people in a short time."

Don't, Girls.

Don't think it necessary for your happiness that every afternoon be spent in making calls or on the street shopping. Home is not a mere hotel wherein to eat and sleep—too dreary to be endured without company from abroad; home work is not mere drudgery, but useful ministration to those we love.

Don't mistake giggling for cheerfulness, slang phrases for wit, boisterous rudeness for frank gaiety, impertinent speeches for repartees. On the other hand, don't be prim, formal, stiff, nor assume a "country face" eloquent of "pumpkins, potatoes, prisms," nor sit bolt upright in a corner, hands, feet, eyes and lips carefully posed for effect. An effect will be produced, but not the one you wish. Nor yet sit scornfully reserved, criticising the dress, manners, looks, etc., of those around you. Make up your mind that your companions are, on the whole, a pretty nice set of people—if they are not, you had no business to come among them—that there is something to respect and like in each of them. Determine to have a nice time anyhow; then do your part to make it so. Be genial, cordial and frank. If you can play and sing ordinarily well do not refuse to take your share in entertaining your companions in that way. You cannot be expected to sing like a Nilsson or Kellogg. If you cannot play or sing, say so frankly, and do not feel humiliated. You probably excel in some other accomplishment. Even if you don't, you can possess that one grand accomplishment to which all others are accessories, that of being "a lady"—a true woman, gentle and gracious, modest and lovable.

Rules for Spoiling Children.

Try to forget as much as possible that you were young yourself.

When they amuse themselves tormenting animals, look and laugh.

Always tell them to hit back when annoyed by neighboring children.

Tell them all the lies you like and half kill them if they tell you one.

When they tell you they won't do a thing, laugh at them and let it go.

When they fall and hurt themselves scold them for their awkwardness.

Dress them in style that they will be afraid to play for fear of spoiling their clothes.

Make religion such a long-faced pokey thing that they'll hate the name of it as long as they live.

Don't give them anything to read but bible stories, Sabbath-school books and dime novels.

Don't give them the habit of kissing them good night; if you happened to die they'd be awfully lonely without it.

Tell them it is a sin to be dishonest, but if they bring you back too much change from the grocers keep it and tell them to say nothing about it.

Let them sleep till you have started to work in the morning, and then have them put to bed before you get home at night, to avoid becoming too intimately acquainted with them.

Threaten to tell their father and get them punished for every blessed thing they do, so that by degrees they'll come to the conclusion that a father is some sort of a whipping machine.

Tell them it is a sin to laugh or play on Sunday, and make the day as dull and stupid as possible for them. Then, when they grow up and go to Congress, they will be apt to pass a bill doing away with the observance of the day altogether.

If you happen to be in a gruff mood and feel a little palm trying to nestle in yours, or a little arm trying to twine itself around your neck, give a growl and snarl out something about wanting to be let alone. The offense won't be repeated.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVE., SEPTEMBER 11, 1882.

TERMS:—The EVENING BULLETIN is published daily, and served free of postage at 6 cents per week; 25 cents per month; 75 cents per three months; $1.50 per six months, and $3 per year, payable in advance.

THE EVENING BULLETIN HAS A LARGER CIRCULATION IN THIS CITY, CHESTER AND ABERDEEN, OHIO, THAN ANY OTHER PAPER PUBLISHED IN MAYSVILLE.

HON. J. H. BOWDEN has been selected as presiding Judge of the new Superior Court.

CAPT. JOHN N. LODWICK, of Portsmouth, an old steamboat commander, died at the Cincinnati hospital, on Friday.

KENTUCKY Central Railroad gross earnings for July, 1881, $57,000; net, $19,000; for July, 1882, gross, $71,000; net, $36,000.

The Democrats of Vermont at the late election made important gains. They have secured twenty members of the legislature.

SPEAKER KEIFER is confident of his own re-election to congress, but is quoted as anything but sanguine of republican success in Ohio.

COL. JOHN A. COCKRELL, formerly of the Enquirer, is to be the managing editor of the new Democratic daily soon to be started at Cincinnati.

The Lexington Fair Association at the late meeting cleared $10,000. The amphitheatre is to be enlarged and a machinery hall built next year.

The street railway at Lexington is three and a quarter miles in length. Thirty-two hundred passengers were carried by one car the first day. Eight cars are now in use.

BRECKINRIDGE county is to have a centennial celebration on the 2nd day of November. Hardin's fort was established in 1782, on the ground where Hardinsburg now stands.

It is confidently predicted that Mahone will fail in Virginia at the coming election. He is meeting with strong opposition from unexpected quarters. His reign as boss of Virginia politics seems to be drawing to an end.

THE jury in the Star Route case, on Saturday, announced their inability to agree upon a verdict and asked to be further instructed. These were given by Judge Wylie, and are said to be strongly against the defendants. A jury, however, is a very uncertain quantity with whom, in some cases, the rendering of exact justice is not always a prime consideration. The conviction and punishment of the Star Route thieves, would, in the light of past experience of public plunderers, be a surprise to the country.

THE nomination of Col. Hurt as the candidate of the Democracy, for Congress, is under the circumstances, the best that could have been made. His selection as the standard bearer of the party affords an easy way out of difficulties that might have proved very embarrassing before the end was reached. So far as we can learn the action of the convention is heartily approved, and the support he will receive will be warm and generous on all sides. Colonel Hurt is an able man, fixed in his political views, a ready and effective debater and capable of meeting satisfactorily any opposition that may be made against him. He will command the undivided Democratic vote of the district and will take his seat in Congress, backed by the majority the party has been in the habit of giving in former years.

NEWS BREVITIES.

John Beatty was shot and wounded by a tramp near Bradford, Pa., for refusing him food. Citizens are hunting for Mr. tramp.

At Reading, Pa., Mrs. Guckerl, reported in the dispatches as suffering from hydrophobia, died in terrible agony.

Rev. Wm. H. Vandoren, D. D., a noted Presbyterian clergyman, died at his home at Indianapolis Friday evening of paralysis of the stomach.

Two strangers entered the Merchants' Bank at Winnipeg, and during the temporary absence of the teller, secured possession of $10,000 in bills.

A freight train on the Marietta and Cincinnati Railroad was wrecked near Little Hocking. Six cars were destroyed and two carloads of cattle killed.

A fire in the broom factory of Samuel Cupples & Co., at St. Louis, destroyed two large buildings with stock. Loss and insurance not known.

Jesse Pace, a highly respectable farmer, was murdered Thursday, near Winona, Minn., by two men named Curtis. Both men are at large. They acknowledged having committed the deed through a letter to the sheriff.

Wm. Jackson, a fireman on the steamer Saratogo, at Troy, N. Y., dared Wm. Lacey, a fellow fireman, to jump overboard in his working clothes. The challenge was accepted and Lacey swam back in safety. Jackson was drowned.

DIVULGING A TROTTERING SECRET.

Lady Thorne's Mysterious Mile—Did She Equal Maud S.'s Best Record?

From the Spirit of the Times.
We presume our readers have all heard of that very private trial, in the year 1870, when Mace drove Lady Thorne a ghostly mile in the gray of the morning, and only two others, John L. Doty and William H. Saunders, timed the mare. In regard to this trial, her driver said: "I never saw Lady Thorne trot a full mile at her best but once, and there are two other men living besides myself who can tell how fast that was, but I shall never tell, and it is probable that they will not. It was so fast that it would not be credited by the public, and so we agreed that we would never mention the time. But I will say this much: It was a faster gait for the whole mile than I ever saw kept up by any other horse for a single quarter." For a round dozen of years did Dan Mace maintain his determination to "never tell," but in an unguarded moment, a short time ago, out popped the secret. On the occasion to which we refer Dan had become much interested in conversation with a gentleman about that year, 1870, when Lady Thorne was to meet Goldsmith Maid at Buffalo. She had beaten the Maid whenever they had contended on Eastern tracks, but the party of the little bay mare were quite confident of a victory at Buffalo. Dan, after the trial referred to, felt abundant confidence himself, and he related, on this recent occasion, how he met Mr. Smith, the owner of the Maid, and told him he would beat her.

"But," said Mr. Smith, "we can trot three heats better than 2:20."

"So can I," said Dan.

"We can trot three heats better than 2:18."

"So can I," said Dan.

"We can trot three heats in 2:16."

"So can I," said Dan.

The gentleman to whom Mace related the foregoing conversation casually asked, "Why, Dan, how fast did you ever drive Thorne?"

Dan impulsively replied: "I drove her a mile just as fast a mile as was ever trotted in public, and the last half in 1:05!"

The secret of a decade was now more fully out. Lady Thorne trotted a trial in 1870 in 2:10, last half in 1:05, timed by two of the most experienced men on the turf, both still in the flesh, and driven by a man who now lacks only two years of his threescore.

Up and down the thoroughfares,
We hear on every hand,
Nothing but "electric light,"
And "Huntley's famous band."
Now, that the troupe has come to town
We plainly see in sight,
Lots of fun if you will go
And see the play to-night.

The electric light and the brass band will draw a large crowd to the opera house this evening.

The managers of the Park's Hill Camp Grounds will illuminate the grounds next season with an electric light.

JOHN BERNHART, of Augusta, was badly hurt last week, by a shed that he was tearing down falling upon him.

The brass band with the Huntley Dramatic Troupe is a very excellent one. It will play this evening in front of the opera house.

MAYSVILLE will be handsomely decorated during the fair, nearly all of the business houses in the city having signed an obligation to that effect.

MR. CHARLES WHITE has decided to put down a freestone pavement in front of the property he is improving on Second street. He never does anything by halves.

FURTHER returns of the election in Arkansas indicate the Democratic majorities on the state ticket will be larger than anticipated. The Greenback vote was very small.

MR. PATRICK BYRON, who lives near this city, has shown us a sample of his tobacco which he has just finished cutting. It is very fine and the yield will be from 1,500 to 1,800 pounds to the acre.

MR. BURR MARSH, of this city, has been engaged as a clerk by Messrs. Mabley & Co. proprietors of the mammoth clothing house, at Cincinnati. He invites his Maysville friends to call and see him.

FIFTY-EIGHT men and thirty horses are at work on the Newport and Big Sandy Railroad in the vicinity of Augusta. It is reported that a larger force will be put at work by the first of the coming month.

The following is from the Cincinnati Times-Star:

Mr. C. L. Sallee will go to Maysville in a few days to locate, having formed a partnership with his brother, James H. Sallee, of that place, in the practice of law. Mr. Sallee has made a host of friends here as a genial gentleman, and ranks finely as a member of the Newport bar. We will miss him.

MR. J. T. BRADEN in the last two years has sold four hundred and fifty Remington sewing machines. On Tuesday he made a purchase of fifty of these machines, which he expects to dispose of immediately. Mr. Braden is an active enterprising man, who is succeeding well in his business.

Huntley Dramatic Troupe.

This well known and popular company numbering eighteen finished artists, will appear at the Opera House this evening in the humorous drama "Flirtation." The troupe comes well endorsed by the press as one of great merit, and worthy of the patronage of the public. It is accompanied by a fine brass band and good orchestra. The costumes are all new, elegant and attractive. The Lexington papers where the company has lately appeared contain the most favorable notices. We extract the following:

The Huntley Dramatic Company closed their engagement successfully here, under the management of Mr. Marsh. The performance was good throughout and gave entire satisfaction to the large and refined audiences that witnessed it. We take pleasure in recommending the entertainment to the public.

Reserved seats for sale at Taylor's news depot.

IN RESEARCHES upon the petroleum of the Caucasus, M. Schutzenberger has observed that, although conducted with the utmost care, his analysis frequently showed more than 100 per cent. of matter. A like result was obtained with two other substances. Following up the investigation, he has found that sodium and copper appear to so effect certain products as to produce the anomaly observed; while if the articles so affected are exposed for a short time to sunlight they give a normal analysis. It is suggested, as a possible explanation, that the weight of atoms may vary within certain narrow limits, and that in the case of the hydrocarbon it may be modified by the action of sodium or by light. If confirmed, M. Schutzenberger's discovery will have an important bearing upon the fundamental principles of chemical science.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects a cure and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District. ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan. 20, 1880.
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.

Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.
KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.
Send address for Illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.
Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. j27d.
